WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1915.

SCHOOLS AND BURSARIES

We publish in another column a further communication from Mr. R. D. Gilchrist, of the Hartley District, in which an attempt is made to reply to our criticism of his letter of the 9th September on the subject of Rhodesian education. Mr. Gilchrist, it will be recalled, formulated a serious indictment against the Education Department on a variety of grounds, and he now seeks to substantiate these charges by quoting certain official and semi-official statements. Let us see how far his evidence harmonizes with facts which are hardly in dispute. The opening sentences of Mr. Gilchrist's first letter read thus—

"Few graver events have transpired in this time of serious happenings in Rhodesia than the cool statement of the Director of Education in the Legislative Assembly that he had effected a saving of £7,000 on the year. This statement was completely made in face of the facts—"

We questioned the authenticity of this assertion and invited our correspondent to indicate when and where the Director of Education had made such an admission or boast. Mr. Gilchrist is now constrained to acknowledge that the Director said nothing of the kind, but, in defence of his own recklessness, he refers us to a couple of lines, wrenched from their context, in the Budget speech of the Treasurer, emphatically adding, "Comment on this is obviously superfluous." On reference to "The Rhodesia Herald" of the 25th April, we find that the reduction to which the Treasurer referred was in the salaries bill for civil servants generally, including teachers, and not to the Education Vote as a whole. Mr. Newton said—

"The Council will take notice both in the estimates for the current year, which are before you, and in our expenditure in the past year that a considerable saving has been and is being effected in the salaries of civil servants who have gone on active service. We have in the Government Service 759 European males, and of these 116, representing 15 per cent. of the service, have gone to the front. The votes on which the principal savings occur are on education, £7,000, of which £3,700 is on salaries. The full number of appointments has not been made, and several of the staff are on active service, and further, as regards the £2,000, this has been saved owing to the Plumtree School having been taken over."

We fail to see how the foregoing statement can be construed into an official admission that primary education is being starved. As we pointed out in our issue of the 20th ult., it is unfortunately true that several new schemes have had to be shelved owing to the state of the finances and to other conditions brought about by the war, but the school returns show beyond dispute that the Department has made, and is making, strenuous and successful efforts to keep pace with the current needs of the country, so far at least as primary education is concerned. In support of his charge Mr. Gilchrist states that the Department is "overworked and understaffed." Mr. Gilchrist apparently can cite nothing more tangible in the nature of evidence than the fact that some time ago he considered it to be his duty to protest to the principal of the Boys' High School, Salisbury, against the conditions prevailing there. Now at the period to which he alludes the largest class in the school of Rhodesia was one of 41 pupils; at present there is only one class with more than 40 pupils, and none exceed 50. We understand that at one time rather widely proportions, but that legitimate claims for complaint have long ago been removed. With reference to proposals to provide transport for children in the Hartley district and to appoint travelling teachers, on the thirty-year-old Australian plan, it is sufficient to remark that the low limit of enrollment required in connection with form schools—namely, ten children or against twenty in the Transvaal—renders the adoption of such measures unnecessary. In a few exceptional cases the children are in fact conveyed to school at the instance of the Department. The system of travelling, or circuit teachers, has been tried elsewhere in South Africa, especially in the Free State, but proved unsatisfactory, and has been entirely discontinued.

Coming to the question of the Belt Scholarships, the terms of the letter quoted by Mr. Gilchrist—a letter written by a clerical officer attached to the Boys' High School—compels us to admit that he had reasonable grounds for believing that the reduction in the Belt Scholarships from £40 to £25 per annum had been made retrospective. But the fact remains that there has been no such interference with bursaries granted prior to the termination in December, 1914, as regards the candidates at the latter examination, the conditions were made known to school principals early in the year and were available to all parents who took the trouble to make application therefor. The phraseology of the letter is peculiar in the circumstance and can only be accounted for on the assumption that the variation in the amount of the grant, foreshadowed ten months before the examination, had been overlooked. In these circumstances we do not think that the Department can be held blame-worthy for the misunderstanding that seems to have arisen in this single instance. We have neither the time nor the space to devote to a discussion of a number of side issues raised in our respondent's second communication. We may add, however, that boarding grants continue to be granted freely; so much so, indeed, that, we understand, no such grant has been refused in the last two years except on the ground of the parent's inability to pay the full fees. We venture to think that we have said sufficient to vindicate the attitude we have adopted towards Mr. Gilchrist's charges. It now rests with our correspondent to substantiate direct evidence in proof of his assertion as to the "hundreds of children who are denied the right of any education whatever," and to bring the knowledge of the facts to the notice, not of a single master, but of the heads of the Education Department. Until such testimony is forthcoming, we shall refuse to believe that the Department is guilty of the grave neglect that he would have our readers believe can fairly be laid to its charge.

CORRESPONDENCE

RHODESIAN EDUCATION

MR. GILCHRIST'S CHARGES

To the Editor of the Rhodesia Herald.
Sir,—In your leader of the 20th inst., you characterize my letter of the 9th inst. as a reckless indictment on the grounds of the following alleged misstatements—

(a) "A saving of £7,000 has been effected on the year." In answer to your request for my authority for this statement, I refer you to your own files, where in your issue of the 30th April of this year you will find in the Treasurer's Budget Statement (fourth column, page 3) the following plain statement:—
"The votes on which the principal savings occur are: Education, £7,000, of which £3,700 is on salaries." Comment on this is obviously superfluous.

(b) "Existing schools are overcrowded and understaffed." You state that, "I have been misinformed," and answer that: "It is my duty to bring such facts to the knowledge of the Department." I am pleased that you commend the undertaking of a duty which I have already performed in protesting to the Principal of the High School, Salisbury, against the conditions prevailing there.

(c) "There are hundreds of children in Rhodesia to-day who are denied the right of any education whatever." This, sir, is no "how drawn at a venture," as anyone who listened to the discussion at the Parents' Congress of 1914 can testify, and the "indifference of parents" seems to me to be an incentive to vigorous action rather than an excuse for inactivity. On this point I will also have your approval in having applied to the Department for information. In view of what any casual observer can see in the outside districts, I asked the Director of Education whether he could give the results of the methods adopted in the outside districts in Australia, but unfortunately no answer was in the response. To point my finger at conditions in the Transvaal is an implication, and I would suggest an attempt to maintain the same standard of education. The Rhodesia Herald, a journal of confidence obtaining in Rhodesia, has taken over thirty years ago. Australia in 1883 with Rhodesia in 1915 is surely on an unfair comparison for us, and it brings us face to face with the facts of free and compulsory education. Back in the eighties, features of interest to us at the present stage were the conveying of children in the outside districts to and from the schools at the Government's expense, and further out again the travelling school teacher with his wagon, on circuit, teaching at given points and setting lessons for his pupils to be revised on his return. Even in those days it was possible for talented children of the poorest parent to qualify by means of the "Exhibition Scholarship," with its six free years at the colleges to qualify for the highest positions of responsibility in the land, and Australia is reaping to-day the reward of her wise and truly economical policy in the service of some of her most distinguished scholars and statesmen.

May I point out in this connection that your table is valuations apart from its relation to increase of population. (d) "The reduction of Belt Scholarships has been made retrospective." In answer to your statement that the announcement was made in January, 1914, it is sufficient for me to quote a letter in reference to a pupil who won the Belt Scholarship in December, 1914, and who is in receipt of no grant other than this scholarship—

"Boys' High School, Salisbury, The April, 1916.
"Dear Sir,—The Secretary of the Belt Trusts has just informed me that 'a grant is reduced to £25 (instead of £40) as from the beginning of last term."
Yours faithfully,
L. J. GRANT,
Headmaster.

These replies to your charges of "groundlessness and recklessness" (being mainly official and statements of fact rather than opinion) should I think be deemed sufficient.

One can sympathize with you in "not being in a position to speak with authority" on the matter of the revenue of the Belt Trusts, which disability I hope will result in your advocating that a public trust should be publicly administered. I regret that you found it inconvenient to deal with my principal charge against the Belt Trusts, viz., "the violation of the spirit of the law of the late Mr. Belt in unlawfully retaining the funds long after the lapse of the period of disbursement stipulated by him." I sympathize with your opinion that the Belt Scholarships should be "a means of raising the standard of education." That supererogatory is eminently desirable, and its continuation on Page 5.

INTERVIEW WITH MARITZ

"VERY REPENTANT"

HAS NOW NO FAITH IN THE KAISER

An account of the arrest of Maritz and an interview with the prisoner, which has been in the hands of the Kaiser for some time, has been released and recently reprinted in the "Pirate" Bottle Store.

General S. B. Maritz arrived here from the interior by the 9 a.m. train yesterday, accompanied by Commandant Kamfer.
They had been arrested by an officer about four miles from Oongamaba, near the Rhodesian frontier, some three weeks previously. Maritz was suffering from a bad attack of fever. After being taken to the Governor's they were quartered in the Hotel Paris, where I called upon the lieutenant in charge. He informed me that, hearing of two foreigners in his neighbourhood, he located them at a store making purchases. In reply to his enquiries they stated that they were two Englishmen from Waterfontein, Rhodesia, on a shooting and trading expedition, and gave their names as Joubert and Neckar respectively. Noting that their replies to some of his enquiries were somewhat vague, that they were dressed in British uniforms, but were paying for their purchases in German 20-mark pieces, he became suspicious and decided to examine the handbags they had with them.

GERMAN GOLD.

He found some 120 to 140 twenty-mark pieces in gold in a sack, a cheque book partly used, and sundry papers, but as all were in a language with which he was unacquainted he was unable to throw any light on the contents. They were accompanied by three native boys, their transport consisting of a camel, four oxen and a mule. They stated they were on their way to Bulamole, so the lieutenant gave them a soldier to accompany them to the next police depot. That night, with a small escort, he rounded up their camp and arrested them on suspicion.
They then told him who they were.

The lieutenant informed me that in course of conversations he had gathered that five in all had left Danamaland, that one had committed suicide, and that upon arriving in Angola Maritz had sent two of them to Manica Fort to request a permit to travel in Angola. As these did not return he sent two natives to obtain news of them. These boys returned with the information that they had been arrested and were under detention. Maritz also told the lieutenant that he was tired of politics, had been thrown over by his friends, and his one idea was to live quietly with his wife and family if permitted.

The day after their arrival I wrote Maritz requesting an interview. This he granted by means of a short-written by-line. He mentioned that he had been lying down in his shirt sleeves and with a high temperature. He received no very frankly apologizing for not having replied to my note himself owing to being too ill, and requesting me to excuse him lying down again as he really could not sit up.

He said he was quite willing to give me any information. He was, however, suffering so severely that it was impossible to make many leading questions. He said that after the surrender at Upington he had taken no further part in any military operations. In fact, he had purposely had no contact with the German army.

AFTER UPINGTON FIGHT.

In view of Maritz' taken other people went back into Danamaland and retired to a farm right away from the military, where he had remained until leaving on May 5 for Africa. Asked as to his intentions respecting his destination, he said he intended being guided by circumstances, that he partly intended giving himself up to the Portuguese authorities if he heard favourably from them, failing which he intended trying to get to the Congo district. He said he had always been prepared to defend the Union, but not to assist in loading any other country; that his one aim was the restoration of the South African Republic, but failing this he would always prefer living under the British flag to that of the German, as it is certainly repelling freedom.

He said his reason for joining the Germans was that he could not bring himself to fight those who had assisted them in the Boer War.

I mentioned that Maritz appeared to have given him the cold shoulder. He replied that Maritz had known nothing of what was going on.

A FRAID OF BEING SHOT.

Later—Since writing the foregoing I have gathered from the editor of the Be-nuea local paper, who interviewed Maritz, that he is very anxious as to what will be done with him, whether he will be handed over to the British authorities; also whether it is possible that a British cruiser may capture the steamer on the way to Loanda and take him off. He thinks it possible that he may be shot if handed over to the Cape authorities, and is anxious to settle down in this country. Maritz said he did not join the Germans, but only accepted assistance from them in the shape of artillery in his attempt against the Union in favour of the Republic. From this latter interview I gathered that he is very penitent and willing to fight for the Union against any outside nation, and apparently now out of all sympathy with the Germans.

He said that the German Emperor had certainly guaranteed the independence of the South African Republic. I asked him what he now considered this guarantee was worth, and he replied that in view of actual events its value was very questionable.

Any stabbing pain in the back is good cause to suspect your kidneys

For they lie beneath the small of the back. A weak back, or sharp twinges of pain when you stoop, tell of weak, overworked, or inflamed kidneys.

The kidneys have enough to do when they are in health, to keep the blood pure and to filter out kidney poisons, but when they are weakened by overwork, chills, erratic diet, or any other cause, they quickly break down. Then, what was at first simple kidney weakness, may soon turn to gravel, stone, dropsy, bladder disorders, rheumatism, lumbago, or advanced kidney disease.

Don't Backache Kidney Pills relieve inflamed and congested kidneys by causing a free flow from the bladder; this flushes out the irritating kidney poisons, and leaves the kidney system cleansed

RIFLE SHOOTING

THE VOLUNTEER CLUB

There was a better attendance than usual of members of the Volunteer Rifle Club at the range on Sunday morning, when a practice shoot over three ranges was engaged in. There were sixteen present and it was pleasing to note the presence of several of the older hands. Their assistance was invaluable, and it is hoped they will continue to give the club the benefit of their knowledge in instructing younger shots. The attendance would have been augmented but for the parade of Reserve at the Drill Hall, and this necessarily prevented several keen shots from attending the practice. Arrangements, it is understood, are being made to hold shoots with more regularity and it is hoped that they will be loyally supported.

The scores returned on Sunday were fairly satisfactory, and the following are remembered that there was an annoying storm and a disturbing wind, which caused considerable trouble at the longer ranges.

The following are some of the best cards returned:—

C-Sergt. Morgans	200	500	600	Tl.
S-Major Cook	33	29	32	94
Sergt. Watson	32	31	25	88

AMUSEMENTS

KINEMACOLOR PICTURES

A great novelty in the cinema world is to be presented to the local public at the Drill Hall on Tuesday next, October 12, and the following nights, when Messrs. J. C. Williamson, Ltd., will screen kinemacolor pictures under the title "With the Fighting Forces of Europe." This entertainment is entirely new to Salisbury, its picturesque feature being that the pictures are shown in nature's own colours, an invention which is a decided artistic triumph. The invention is more remarkably employed when nature's surroundings are vivid, and the costumes with which it deals are gay and resplendent. Some really wonderful effects are realised by the marching of regiments with scarlet tunics and white gaiters, the rhythmic blending having been described as being like a great colour poem. Even the quieter colours, the greys and sombres browns are faithfully portrayed and all the scenes are enhanced in value by the new treatment which has been introduced. The entertainment occupies about two-and-a-half hours, and the war pictures which are screened are full of historical importance. Indeed, the public can be assured that the kinemacolor will afford a delightful treat in contrast to the ordinary films seen at kinemacolor performances. A capable orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. F. Hooper, will complete the evening's amusement. The prices are popular and every arrangement will be made to ensure the comfort and convenience of the public.
